DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 04/20/09 has been entered.

Inventorship

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
4. Claims 5 and 44-57 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fisch (RE 35,589) in view of Tolles (4,171,866). This rejection was maintained in the previous Office Action (mailed 04/20/09). It remains in effect. Please see Response to Arguments below.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 04/20/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
6. Applicant has amended claim 5 to include the limitation of the opposed longitudinal edges "extending a longitudinal length of the cover slip". The Examiner submits that this new limitation does not limit the device further than previously claimed since this feature was already present in the claimed device. That is, a longitudinal edge of a cover slip would inherently extend a longitudinal length of the cover slip.

7. Applicant has argued (Page 7) that the spacer segments of Tolles do not extend to the edges of the cover slip. The Examiner agrees that Tolles does not teach spacer segments that extend to the edges of the cover slip. This feature, however, is taught by Fisch. See Figure 1B of Fisch.

8. Applicant has argued (Page 8) that the combination of Fisch and Tolles would not result in the formation of a hybridization chamber between the spacer segments. The Examiner respectfully disagrees and notes that the use of the spacer segment pair from Tolles to allow an opening for sample insertion (as described by the Examiner in Paragraph 3 of the Office Action mailed 09/18/07) would result in a device having a chamber between the spacer segments as in Figures 3 and 4 of Tolles.

9. Applicant has argued (Pages 9-11) that neither Fisch nor Tolles teach a cover slip having a thickness of at least 0.85 mm. Applicant has also argued that this feature is critical to achieve a cover slip thickness that prevents adhesion forces from changing the substantially constant distance between the cover slip and substrate. Therefore, Applicant asserts, the cover slip of Fisch would indeed perform differently than the instant device. The Examiner respectfully disagrees and notes that Applicant's Specification teaches that this feature may be provided by a cover of about 0.3 mm –

2.0 mm thickness (Paragraphs [0009] and [0024]). Fisch teaches a slide cover having a thickness of 0.1 to 0.5 mm. Fisch discloses a thickness capable of meeting the argued functional feature; therefore, the relative difference between the claimed thickness and the thickness taught by Fisch would not result in a device that performs differently than the instant device.

Conclusion

10. This is an RCE of applicant's earlier Application No. 10/021,602. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
